

New scams and how to protect your business against them!

Sneaky ads and luring invitations are everywhere you go on the internet. You have to be aware of what you click and what it can do to your system and your network. The past week we have cleaned up 5 different systems that were infected from a luring ad, what appeared to be a YouTube video, and scamming emails. You cannot let your guard down when you browse through Facebook or MySpace. You have to be careful of what emails you open and what you enter into any web site. The scammers are getting better and better. I received one email from what appeared to be my bank, and it really looked real to me, until I noticed the "to:" was addressed to my info@ttecht.com. We had one system in the other week that clicked on what appeared to be a video in their facebook account and it posted to all the account in their facebook and fortunately McAfee stopped it from infecting their system. At this point we are recommending to our business customers to remove limewire, facebook and myspace access on business networks. It is not worth the risk.

Let us help you protect your business from viruses, malware, spyware, and scareware.

Is there a difference in the pc sitting in the aisle at Wal-Mart versus a pc you can purchase from TTechT?

Wow it is a great deal... PC only $499 and includes software and a flat panel... Now let's look at the fine print.

The biggest problem is the Celeron processor in these units. You want a true Intel® Core™ 2 Duo Processor or even a Quad Core. This processor will hold up over time. Celeron Processors wear and slow down. There is a difference.

Next look at the video card, graphics is used everywhere, you have to dedicated memory on the graphics card, if you don't your graphic must load from your system memory. You will notice a difference on boot up, internet, games...

Memory, the more the better... Enough said?

10/100/1000 NIC—internet is getting faster and faster at home and office, don't make the bottleneck at the cable that comes into your computer.

Longevity—our pc has been built for the future and will last. With our system, we include the upgrade to a windows 7 license and it does not require additional hardware. Dell includes a 3 year next business day on site warranty after initial troubleshooting.

Tech support—Purchasing a system from us we are your first line of support (phone or remotely). The Dell tech support included on our systems is business class service (not the home user division, there is a huge difference). An upgrade can be purchase for pro support, which includes North American support and a guaranteed response time.

Email Addresses

Why not to use a "free email account" for a Business?

When you use an email address from your ISP or one of the free email address companies (yahoo.com, msn.com, hotmail.com, live.com), there are a few things to consider.

Mail is more likely to be marked SPAM if you use an ISP or free email account. That means that a portion of the time, your recipient isn't going to get your email immediately depending in their SPAM filtering. WHY? Because so many spammers and chain letter writers abuse the free email system.

You have a domain name... use the email addresses that comes with it, they are typically included in the price of the domain hosting. If not, talk to us, we give you unlimited web space, unlimited email addresses and lots more. You purchased the domain name.... keep "touting" it... you want to drive people to your site... use it as a marketing tool. When you use your domain name in your email address... that makes the recipient think about going to your web site? If you don't use that domain email address, how do they know you have a web site? I do that... someone new sends me an email, I go check out their web site.

You are 99% guaranteed with your domain name email address you will not be tagged SPAM, why? Because you are the only one using that domain name... I doubt you are a SPAMMER. This gets your email into the inbox of your recipient faster and it looks more professional.

An email with your domain name is just plain and simple... Professional.

Take full advantage of all the benefits of purchasing a domain name. Don't have a domain name or would like to transfer yours to TTechT, we can help. Contact Mandy Gels or Lisa Niekamp-Urwin. We will get you started!
